

In quarantine until further notice...

The pandemic affects the whole world and we can only try to stay safe. Unfortunately, Andreas Kuoppa has the Covid-19 infection. However, we are grateful as he is much better now.

- The disease was awful, says Andreas. Especially the difficulties in breathing were one of the biggest ordeals I have gone through. It lasted for several weeks, still I do not feel completely recovered. It was not until yesterday I had the strength of doing any work. It was nice to have the strength for working a bit again.

-For a couple of weeks, we were worried for Andreas and his loved ones in Linköping, says Jan Kuoppa. Everybody should understand how serious the virus is, also for too many of the young persons.

We try to go through these troublesome times for example by:

- Always being aware of our hygiene, washing our hands thoroughly and often.
- Working from home until further notice.
- Having all meetings via internet. There are many tools for it today.
- Ordering deliveries only via internet, no physical shopping.
- Delivering our services only via internet.
- Not actively searching for more work. We will concentrate on an “internal project” during the summer.
- Accepting that we probably may lose assignments, but that we will handle. The business is less than secondary to life.

We will be careful and avoid getting infected. Regretfully, it will take some time until we see where we are at the end of this pandemic.

Walpurgis Night 2020

The “Walpurgis Night 2020 was calmer than ever.

- A dear friend sent me a beautiful picture of his Walpurgis celebration (below), says Jan Kuoppa. It is a nice message to get, these kinds of things are important. Thanks, Robert!

Future activity

It might be presumptuous to write anything about the future now but let us hope that we will have better news and still be in good spirit when we write the next issue.

Bye for now.
